David Larochelle was born into a poor family in rural New Hampshire. He was diagnosed with dyslexia and ADHD at a young age, and he struggled in school. Despite these challenges, David had a passion for technology. He taught himself how to code and build computers, and he started his own IT consulting business while still in high school.

After graduating from high school, David attended college for a short time, but he quickly dropped out to pursue his entrepreneurial dreams. He founded a number of successful IT companies, including a cloud computing company that was acquired by a Fortune 500 company.

In addition to his business success, David is also a passionate mentor to young people. He founded the non-profit organization IT Tiger to help underprivileged youth learn about technology and entrepreneurship. IT Tiger has served over 1,000 students since its inception.

David's story is an inspiration to anyone who has ever faced challenges in their life. He shows that with hard work, determination, and a passion for what you do, anything is possible.

IT Tiger: A Must-Read for Anyone Interested in Technology, Entrepreneurship, or Mentoring

IT Tiger is a must-read for anyone interested in technology, entrepreneurship, or mentoring. David Larochelle's story is both inspiring and instructive. He provides valuable insights into the world of technology and entrepreneurship, and he offers practical advice on how to overcome challenges and achieve success.

IT Tiger is a well-written and engaging book. David Larochelle's writing style is clear and concise, and he does a great job of keeping the reader engaged. The book is full of personal anecdotes and examples, which makes it easy to relate to David's story.

If you are interested in technology, entrepreneurship, or mentoring, I highly recommend reading IT Tiger. It is a book that will inspire you and help you achieve your goals.
